Sean Connery

Scottish actor Sean Connery was the first James Bond in a film and also played this part in seven films between 1962 and 1983; he also acted in other films and became one of the most famous film actors of his generation.

Sean Connery was born on August 25, 1930 in Edinburgh, Scotland, in a very poor family: his mother was a cleaning lady, and his father was a factory worker and truck driver. Before he became an actor, he had many different jobs: milkman, lorry driver, artist's model or bodybuilder. He also joined the Royal Navy, but he left because he had medical problems.

At 23, he had to choose between becoming a professional footballer or an actor. He was a good footballer, but he chose to be an actor and said it was one of his most important decisions in life.

In his life he received many important prizes; for example on July 5, 2000, Queen Elizabeth II gave him the honorific title of "Sir".

He enjoyed politics and was in favour of Scottish nationalism and independence from the United Kingdom.

Sean Connery died on 31st October 2020, in the Bahamas, at the age of 90.
